Adjudication of Persons of Unsound Mind

Enquiry as to lunacy

5. (1) Any Magistrate, upon the information upon oath of any informant to the effect that the informant has good cause to suspect and believe and does suspect and believe some person to be of unsound mind and a proper subject for confinement, may, in any place which he deems convenient, examine such person, and, in the same place or elsewhere, may hold an enquiry as to the state of mind of such person.

For the purposes of such enquiry the Magistrate shall have the same powers as if the person alleged to be of unsound mind were a person against whom a complaint for an offence punishable on summary conviction has been laid:

Provided that, no person alleged to be of unsound mind shall be required to attend at any Magistrate's Court for examination by a Magistrate nor shall he be taken to any such court for such purpose.

(2) A Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, proceed with an enquiry under this section in the absence of the person alleged to be of unsound mind and without proof of the service of any summons upon such person.

(3) If, at any stage of an enquiry under this section, it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Magistrate conducting such enquiry that the person alleged to be of unsound mind is a person whom it is expedient to put immediately under confinement pending the conclusion of the enquiry, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate either proprio motu or at the request of the informant—

- (a) to make a written order for the detention of such person during a period which shall not exceed fourteen days in an institution;
- (b) from time to time, on good cause shown to make further orders for such detention, in the like form, for periods none of which shall exceed eight days:

Provided that, no such person shall be detained under observation for more than two months at a time;

- (c) at any time, by order under his hand, to direct that the person detained be released.

(4) It shall be lawful for any person to whom the execution of an order made under the last preceding subsection is entrusted, to convey the person alleged to be of unsound mind therein mentioned to the specified place of detention and there to detain him during the period specified unless previous to the expiry of such period the release of the person alleged to be of unsound mind be ordered in due course of law.

(5) The Magistrate shall also appoint two government medical officers to examine the suspected person and shall furnish such government medical officers with all the information bearing on the mental state of such suspected person which he has been able to procure and such government medical officers shall, if they consider the facts warrant them in so doing, sign separate certificates certifying that in their opinion the suspected person is of unsound mind. Each such certificate shall specify in full detail the facts upon which the person signing it founds his opinion, and shall distinguish facts which he has himself observed from facts communicated by others. The person signing each certificate shall enquire of any persons able to give information as to the previous history of the suspected person, and shall state in his certificate all matters known to him which he deems likely to be of service with reference to medical treatment. No certificate shall have any effect under this Act which purports to be founded wholly on facts communicated by others.

(6) The informant referred to in subsection (1) shall, if required by any government medical officer appointed to examine the suspected person, by written notice served personally on him, attend at the time and place specified in such notice and give such information touching the mental condition of the suspected person as shall be in his power to give. Any such person who neglects or refuses to attend as and when so required or refuses to answer any question concerning the mental condition of the suspected person which may be put to him by the government medical officer enquiring into such mental condition shall on summary conviction be liable to a fine of $750 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

(Amended by Act 4 of 2003)

- (a) he is suffering from mental illness, severe mental impairment, psychopathic disorder or mental impairment and his mental disorder is of a nature or degree which makes it appropriate for him to receive medical treatment; and
- (b) in the case of psychopathic disorder or mental impairment, such treatment is likely to alleviate or prevent a deterioration of his condition; and
- (c) he is suffering from mental disorder of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for assessment (or for assessment followed by medical treatment); and
- (d) he ought to be so detained and/or treated in the interests of his own health or safety or with a view to the protection of other persons; and
- (e) it is necessary for the health or safety of the patient or for the protection of other persons that he should be assessed or receive treatment and it cannot be provided unless he is detained under the provisions of this Act.

(5) The Magistrate shall furnish the medical officer in charge of the institution with all of the information bearing on the mental state of the person detained which he has been able to procure.

(6) If the medical officer in charge of the institution or the Chief Medical Officer certifies that any person so detained under observation is fit for discharge, such person so detained shall be discharged with all convenient speed and the said officer shall notify the Magistrate accordingly within seven days of such discharge.

(7) If the medical officer in charge of the institution or the Chief Medical Officer signs a certificate in the manner and form and containing the particulars required under section 5(5) certifying that in his opinion the person so detained is of unsound mind the Magistrate shall proceed to hold an enquiry as to the state of mind of such person in accordance with the provisions of section 5:

Provided that, for all the purposes of this Act the said medical officer in charge of the institution shall be deemed to be a government medical officer appointed under section 5(5), and his certificate signed under this section shall be deemed to be a certificate signed by him under section 5(5).

(8) A Magistrate on being satisfied on enquiry that the person so detained requires medical treatment for his mental condition shall by written order direct that over such period of time stipulated in the order—

- (a) he be administered such treatment prescribed by—
 - (i) agreement of at least two medical practitioners, one of whom shall be a government Medical Officer; or
 - (ii) a psychiatrist:

Provided that, no treatment may be administered to the patient under paragraph (a) unless both practitioners agree on the form of treatment;

- (b) he be detained in an institution during part or the course of treatment;
- (c) he receives his treatment as an outpatient;
- (d) the Chief Medical Officer or psychiatrist establish and keep under review a treatment regimen for the person adjudged to be of unsound mind.

(9) In any case where a Magistrate considers it expedient he may without further enquiry by order extend the time during which treatment may be administered to a person adjudicated to be of unsound mind under sections 5 and 6.

(10) An application under subsection (9) shall be made by information on oath and may be made brought by the Chief Medical Officer or officer in charge of the institution.

- (a) an approved social worker; or
- (b) by the husband or wife or other nearest relative of the person alleged to be of unsound mind; and every such application shall include a statement that it is of urgent necessity for the patient to be admitted and detained and that compliance with the provisions of section (5) relating to applications would involve undesirable delay.

(3) An emergency application shall be sufficient in the first instance if founded on the written recommendation in the prescribed form of a registered government medical practitioner including a statement that in the opinion of the practitioner the conditions set out in section 6(1) are complied with.

(4) A Magistrate on being satisfied that it is expedient that such a person should be detained for assessment and treatment may by written order direct that such a person be forthwith received into an institution and—

- (a) be evaluated immediately by a psychiatrist or second registered medical practitioner who must submit a written recommendation in the prescribed form; and

(b) be administered such treatment prescribed by the psychiatrist or by agreement of both medical practitioners:

Provided that, where no psychiatrist is available no treatment may be administered to the patient unless both medical practitioners agree on the diagnosis and the form of treatment.

(5) An “emergency order” shall cease to have effect on the expiration of a period of seventy two hours from the time when the patient is admitted to the institution unless the second medical recommendation required by subsection 4 is given to and received by the officer in charge of the institution.

(6) No person shall be subjected to treatment under this section for a period in excess of seven days unless an application is made to the Magistrate to hold an enquiry pursuant to section 5.

(7) If within the period specified in an emergency order the medical officer in charge of the institution certifies that the person so detained is fit for discharge such person so detained shall be discharged with all convenient speed and the said officer shall notify the Magistrate accordingly within seven days of such discharge.

(8) If within the period specified in an emergency order, the Chief Medical Officer or the Officer in charge of the institution, signs a certificate in the manner and form and containing the particulars required under section 5(5) certifying that in his opinion the person so detained is of unsound mind, the Magistrate shall proceed to hold an enquiry as to the state of mind of such person in accordance with the provisions of section 5:

Provided that, the certificate signed by the said medical officer shall be deemed to be a certificate signed by him under section 5(5).
